

THE BROOKFIELD NATURE CENTER

ROUTE 133 (OBTUSE HILL ROAD)

The Brookfield nature Center consists of 16 acres owned by Town of Brookfield and is managed by the Brookfield Conservation Commission. The land has a striking mix of old fields, upland woods with stands of Spruce mixed with large specimen trees of Tulip and White Oak. Merwin Brook cuts across the northwest corner of the property. The brook flows through a wooded wetland with White Ash, Elm, and red Maple trees around it. The grassland fields are nesting sites for Bobolinks and other ground nesting birds. A careful mowing schedule is used to protect the eggs and chicks. trails will lead you through the site.
